LANTERS HARDWARE CO.
INCORPORATED.

DATE SET FOR NOV. 29

U. D. C. Fountain Will Be Presented to the City November 29.

NEW PRINCESS THEATRE

Exercises Will Be Held At One O'clock With Formal Addresses.

The finishing touches are being put on the beautiful U. D. C. drinking fountain and at a meeting of the Committee Saturday the date for the unveiling was finally fixed and the program will be announced in a few days.

The formal unveiling exercises, owing to the uncertainties of the weather, will be held indoors and Mr. Geo. A. Bleich has generously tendered the use of the new Princess Theatre, which will be opened Monday night.

The unveiling will take place Wednesday Nov. 29, the day before Thanksgiving. There will be a formal eulogy of the Confederate soldiers of Christian county, living and dead, followed by a brief presentation by one of the members of the chapter and a formal acceptance by the mayor, on behalf of the city.

The fountain is now complete, except the sanitary mouthpieces on our sides, but it will be covered up until formally unveiled next week.

NARROW ESCAPE

For Lady Who Stepped Backward Into An Open Cellar.

Mrs. Geo. D. Dalton fell into the open door of a cellar left open by a servant, at her home on East Seventh Street, yesterday and was painfully injured. The back of her head hit the edge of the opening as she stepped backward into it and a severe cut was made from which blood flowed freely until she received surgical attention. Fortunately no bones were broken and her injuries are not very serious.

AS LIGHTERS FOR CIGARS

The Council Uses $25,000 of Bonds With 10 Years' Coupons Attached.

NOT DUE UNTIL 1921.

But The Money Was On Hand And They Were Paid Off.

The City Council at its meeting Friday night burned $25,000 of city bonds paid off, the councilmen using some of them as lighters for cigars donated by Councilman Lebkuether. This made $46,000 paid off in five years and leaves only $15,000 unpaid and $8,000 in the sinking fund to pay those.

A warrant was ordered for $1446 for the contract price of the cemetery gates, completed by the Davis Monument Co.

Several street matters of more or less importance were attended to. A new contract was authorized with Downer & Russell to defend Mrs. Latham's damage suit against the city in federal court.

BIRTHDAY TEA.

Mrs. S. H. Burbridge Celebrates 76th Anniversary.

Mrs. Susan Henry Burbridge celebrated her 76th birthday anniversary Saturday afternoon, at her home on Fourteenth street, by having an informal tea and reunion of as many of the Henry family as could be brought together on short notice. Quite a number of her friends called to wish for her many more happy anniversaries. Mrs. Burbridge and her grand-daughter, Miss Willie Cook, will leave to-day for Dallas, Texas, to spend the winter with Clarence Burbridge's family.

BURNED BY PUFF OF GAS

L. S. Tomlinson Almost Loses Eyesight By Explosion At Gas Plant.

WAS INSPECTING THE BOILER

Taken TO Louisville Sunday Suffering From Dangerous Burns.

L. S. Tomlinson, boiler inspector for the Fidelity and Casualty Co., New York, with headquarters in Louisville, was badly burned in a gas explosion here Saturday afternoon. Mr. Tomlinson was here for the purpose of inspecting the City Light Company's boilers. The water in the regular gas boiler at the company's plant had become muddy and had been allowed to run low in order that it could be cleaned out and another boiler had been put in use for the time being. The inspector began an examination of the boiler which was out of commission and when he placed a candle inside there was an explosion from accumulated gas. Mr. Tomlinson's face caught the full force of the puff and he was pretty badly burned. It was feared that his eyesight had been destroyed, but an examination by physicians showed that while they had been injured both eyes would probably be saved. The injured man was taken to Louisville Sunday, accompanied by Mr. Tom Keown, gas foreman at the local plant.

A Mahogany Bridge.

An American furniture manufacturer, who counts his genuine mahogany boards as a jeweler counts his stones, would probably burst into tears if he should go to the state of Chiapas, in Mexico, and contemplate a bridge which spans the Rio Michol for this entire structure, which, with its approaches, is 150 feet long, with a width of 15 feet, is built entirely of solid mahogany.

The bridge is used by both teams and foot passengers, and, though roughly constructed, is very substantial. None of the massive timbers were sawed, as there is not a saw mill in the region, but all were hewn out with the axe from the logs.

On a New York valuation at least $200,000 worth of material was used in the construction of this rude country bridge.—Harper's Weekly.

New Law Firm.

Attorneys H. W. Linton and Alvan H. Clark, two of Hopkinsville's most promising young lawyers, who are rising rapidly in their profession, have formed a partnership, to take effect January 1. They will have offices at No. 8 in the Hopper building. The new firm is sure to be a successful one.

Cost Him $27.50.

A strange negro named Henry Rhodes, who was seen to drop a dangerous looking dirk and hastily pick it up, was caught after a lively chase Saturday, which was joined in by Sheriff Johnson, Deputy Herbert Johnson and Sergeant Jones. He was taken before Special City Judge A. H. Clark and assessed $27.50, which was paid and he was allowed to depart for Earlington.

LECTURERS TAKE LEAVE

When They Learn That Farmers Were Prepared To Run The Institute.

J. B. WALKER WAS ELECTED

Session Saturday Held After The Paid Lecturers Had Gone Over Protest.

Christian county planters, who came to Hopkinsville Saturday to attend the farmers' institute, are feeling anything but satisfied with the action of the state lecturers, Amos Hall, William Morris and J. T. Perkins, sent here by Commissioner Rankin ostensibly to deliver addresses on agricultural topics. Messrs. Hall, Perkins and Morris left at 11:30 though urged to remain, and did not attend the institute.

However, the meeting was held, as scheduled, in the courthouse, with Squire M. B. King, who on Friday was elected president, in the chair. The first business was the election of J. B. Walker as delegate to the farmers' state institute, which will be held at Frankfort in January. R. C. Crenshaw was named as alternate. The delegate has a vote in the selection of a member of the state board of agriculture. Mr. Walker is a democrat.

It is freely talked on the streets that the defection of the state lecturers was a republican political move to prevent Mr. Walker's election. A similar condition arose Tuesday in Elkton, when J. W. Keeling, a democrat, was unanimously elected delegate. Mr. Hall, the director, declared he would not certify to the election, on the grounds that the delegate was chosen by persons who did not expect to attend the remaining sessions of the institute.

One of the lecturers stated to Esq. King when he went to the courtroom that he had decided not to hold any Institute Saturday, but Esq. King told him a number of farmers would attend the sessions and the arrangements had gone so far that the meeting could not be called off. The lecturers then filed out, while the meeting was called to order and proceeded without them.

Magraw-Hopper.

Miss Lucy Hopper and Mr. Richard A. Magraw of Cadiz, Ky., were quietly married Friday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. French, in the pastor's study of McKendree church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hopper, of Cadiz, Ky., and the groom is the deputy clerk of Trigg county, Ky.—Tennessean and American.

Carmack-Knight.

Lewis Carmack and Miss Sallie Knight, young people living in the Larkin neighborhood, were married at the home of the bride's parents last night. Rev. L. L. Spurlin officiated.

Victim of Pneumonia.

Mrs. Cora Henderson, wife of Mr. Bryan Henderson, died Friday night at her home nine miles Northeast of the city, after a brief illness, of pneumonia, aged 42 years. She was a native of this county, having been born and reared in the neighborhood where she died. The interment took place at Ebenezer Saturday afternoon.

Back to Army.

Thad Drake, of this city, who has served six years in coast artillery; Louis Walker, of Iron Hill, who has served three years in the same department of the army, and Claud Hopper, of Macedonia, were enlisted at Paducah last week.

When the Chinese revolutionists now gathering outside Nanking move on that city to commence what is expected to be the decisive battle of the rebellion two of their prominent leaders will be Ting Chia Chen and Yin Tsing Wen, graduates of the United States Military Academy. Both Ting and Yin were members of the class of 1909 at the academy, and were the first two Chinese to learn military science under the tutelage of the United States Government. After completing their course they were sent to Germany and France, where they spent eighteen months. In January of this year they were ordered back to Pekin. When the rebellion began both of the young officers obtained commissions in the rebel army.

The statement sent out from the Pension Bureau that the negroes have decreased 81 per cent in Kentucky since the 1900 census is not borne out by the facts. It serves rather to sustain the charge that a large percentage of the negroes of Southern cities were not enumerated last year, for one reason or another. Nor is much credence to be put in the statement that the negroes are decreasing in the county at large. They may have been overlooked by the enumerators, but they are still here and most of them are raising families.

In 1838 Michael Welsh married Mary Fox at Feakle, County Clare, Ireland. Twenty-five years afterward his son Peter led Alice Canary to the altar in New Haven. Richard, the eldest son of Peter, last year found his bride in Miss Edna Parrott, and John, next in age, will contribute to the list with Welsh Rabbit, as he puts it. In Derby recently Walter Graves married Miss Anita Coffin.

Saved Child From Death.

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." Who Was There That You Knew?

Think of the ranks of those who marched to defeat or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there a grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, manager than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

They were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $50,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from a pillar's post for nearly 20 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—President Garfield and General Sherman P. Taylor said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Library of Congress, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the most complete, impartial history of the Civil War—before, during and after. It tells the story of the War you never knew before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and show things that were never before known.

"Kentuckian"

A virile, new newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Technical World Magazine

is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to lull away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says: "I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

A Fine Atlas

This one is just off the presses. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures. 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/2. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $3.00. A splendid gift.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Some Kentucky School Superintendents Make but $1 a Day.

EVEN PAY OWN POSTAGE.

But With These Pitiful Salaries They Must Put Up Bonds as High as $30,000—Average Territory Is a Hundred Square Miles.

Does the blame for school conditions lie at the door of the county superintendents or the people at large?

Many county superintendents receive salaries of $400 a year, and none of them receives more than $1,500. When a man has a salary of $400 he is of necessity forced to do something else or starve to death.

No stream can rise higher than its source. No underpaid man can put energy and thought into his work. In one of the fertile and prosperous counties of Kentucky not many miles from Cincinnati, O., I had an interview with a county superintendent whom I knew to be a "live wire" educationally. My first question was:

"How responsible does the public consider your position?"

"Do you mean as measured by salary or by the bond I am asked to give?"

"Your bond."

"Well, I have to give a bond of $30,000. You see, I have $24,000 to pass through my hands annually to finance the forty-six schools that are scattered over the county. Besides, the school-houses with their equipment are an investment of about $65,000."

"You say scattered over the county. How much territory does it cover?"

"This is rather a small county, but my schools that I am forced to visit cover a territory of a hundred square miles, and they are on many kinds of roads. It is quite a proposition to supervise the work of sixty-five teachers in forty-six schools, to say nothing of the office work and the inspection that is necessary for repairs and new buildings."

I was silent for a moment, thinking of the probable salary that would be paid a manager to take charge of a business with $55,000 in the plant spending $24,000 a year running expenses and covering a territory of hundred square miles. I smiled and asked quietly:

"What salary does this county allow you for your work as county superintendent?"

"FIVE HUNDRED AND TEN DOLLARS."

"Do the county and state allow you an adequate expense account?"

He pulled a pocket notebook from his desk and smiled rather bitterly as he said:

"They do not even pay for the stamps or stationery in my office work. Let me run over this for a moment and show you how it goes. I must keep a horse and buggy or I cannot get about. As this county has never taken over the turnpikes I must pay my own toll. If I am far from home in winter time I must stay all night at some hotel. All this makes my expenses for the past year $230, leaving me at the end of the year $280. That's LESS THAN A DOLLAR A DAY FOR ABSOLUTE WORKING TIME."

"What is the highest salary paid county superintendents in the state?"

"Fifteen hundred, and they are few and far between. There are lots of them on the $400 and $600 basis, and it simply means that the fellow has to do life insurance, farm a little, take a place in a store, make a living in some way and then use what time he can spare for the schools."

IT SIMPLY MEANS THAT OUR RURAL SCHOOLS ARE NOT MANAGED AT ALL. THEY ARE MORE COMMONLY MISMANAGED.

Education for the mass of the people is an investment and a business proposition. With a carefully educated population a state or a community can move forward in a desert, anywhere you place them. With an illiterate population the finest country on the globe cannot force them to make good. Brains, trained brains, is the insistent call of the twentieth century. Does Kentucky hear that call? Business and prosperity follow brains; lawlessness and poverty follow illiteracy. Kentucky will be out of step with the onward sweep of the hurrying twentieth century so long as she allows thirteen children out of every hundred to grow into manhood and womanhood robbed of the divine right of being able at least to read and to write.

In order that Kentucky may occupy a place in the forefront in the matter of education, a movement has been inaugurated for the improvement of county schools.

Indifference due to a failure to appreciate the real value of education is one of the very serious obstacles which have confronted every movement toward a higher standard of educational work. In the last few years greater interest has been exhibited generally over the state, indicating in a decided manner that our people were shaking off the lethargy of the past and were aspiring to place the state on a sound, progressive educational basis.

Every citizen must rejoice over this awakening, and all should now unite in a continuous, earnest effort to atone for neglect of the past. It would be a useless task, in view of this growing appreciation of the importance and value of education, to make any argument or submit any extended report in its behalf.

The young physician looked at the girl with the helpless exasperation induced by long and unsuccessful argument.

"Can you not realize the absolute slavery to which you are sentencing yourself?" he demanded.

Miss Helm tilted her chin a trifle higher. "To me it will not be slavery. I have chosen my life work. I shall be very happy in it."

"In a month you will be glad to give it up."

"I am tired of hearing that," she flared. "Every friend I have has said the same thing—that I shall give it up. I shall be a trained nurse and a successful one."

"But I want you to marry me."

"I prefer to spend my days with the sick and the suffering."

"Don't do it, Janet, dear. Marry me and—"

"I won't marry you, Lester," she said irritably, "and I want you to stop asking me."

Dr. Melville's patients at St. Mary's received a great deal of his attention, especially the ones in the charity wards. In these wards the probation nurses worked. Hospital custom decrees that the newest probationer shall do the most menial tasks in the institution.

Each morning when Dr. Melville visited the charity wards he saw Janet Helm, the newest probationer, practicing the lessons the head nurse had taught her. She scoured brass and woodwork and bathtubs. She washed bottles, cleaned instruments and polished floors. One day he stopped beside her as she knelt on the floor.

"Miss Helm," he said with a malicious emphasis, "how do you like nursing?"

She shook out the oiled floor cloth she was using and smiled merrily up at him. "I love it. I am perfectly happy. Go to your patients and don't disturb me. And be careful not to track dust over my clean floors."

Several days later Dr. Melville found Janet sitting beside the bed of the hospital's oldest inhabitant.

"I have been promoted," she announced proudly. "I no longer scrub. I have a patient."

"Glory be," ejaculated the old lady. "It is sure a blessed saint they have given me for my nurse. Such tenderness and gentleness were never before in a woman's fingers as are in these lily hands."

"Now, am I not a real nurse?" asked Janet, triumphantly. Her voice was lowered and the deaf old lady could not hear her words. "I am bringing happiness and comfort to this helpless old woman. Can there be a nobler task? What sweeter compensation can there be than the gratitude of this poor, unfortunate woman?"

As she spoke, the spoon with which she was feeding her patient slipped and the hot broth spilled on Mrs. O'Brien's neck. There was a yell of rage. Two skinny fists were shaken savagely at the girl. From the old woman's toothless mouth came oaths and fearful oburgations.

"Yes," said Dr. Melville, under the continued storm of Mrs. O'Brien's maledictions, "you will find no sweeter compensation than the gratitude of this helpless old lady."

Three months after Janet had entered the hospital she and Dr. Melville were leaving the ward together one evening.

"Miss Helen," said the head nurse of the ward, "Miss Sprague wishes to see you in her office."

Janet's face whitened and a look of anxiety came into her eyes. Miss Sprague was the superintendent of the hospital. She held little personal communication with her nurses. A nurse was never summoned to her office except for an important reason. She was the absolute dictator of the hospital, and her rule was a stern one.

When Janet had gone, Leslie Melville walked up and down the long corridor. He was heartsick with anxiety for the girl who had been called to the superintendent's office. He knew well what Miss Sprague's summons had meant to many nurses as hard-working and as faithful as Janet. He had seen them come from her office with white faces to leave the hospital, taking with them the stigma of expulsion. He knew the severity with which Miss Sprague's rigorous discipline was enforced. Breaches of hospital etiquette, innocent breaking of rules, harmless lapses from the strict hospital standard had been charges so serious that a record of faithful service had not prevailed against them. He knew that Miss Sprague held a prejudice against society girls as nurses. It was impossible that Janet, the petted, indulged, undisciplined child of a luxurious home, had been able to obey implicitly every rule of the institution.

In half an hour Janet appeared. He hurried to meet her. She had been crying, and the tears still clung to her lashes. He drew her to a window recess.

"What was it?" he asked anxiously. "Was it very serious?"

"It was the most serious thing that ever happened to me."

"Tell me about it," he urged impatiently. "Janet, dear, tell me; do you leave the hospital?"

"Yes."

"I feared it. She is cruel and unreasonable and unjust. You do not deserve her treatment of you. It is an outrage."

"She is not unreasonable—"

"I have hoped you would tire of the work and leave the hospital. I wanted you to give it up and marry me. But, for your own sake, I did not want you to be expelled. Miss Sprague's cruel act will compel you to give up the profession. Won't you marry me. I love you more than ever, Janet."

She Scoured Brass and Woodwork.

"You would marry a nurse who has been expelled, discredited?"

"I would marry you under any circumstances."

"Lester, why did you not ask me to marry you before I decided to become a nurse?"

"Why—why—you knew I loved you."

"You did not say so. You did not ask me to marry you until I told you I expected to enter the hospital. I was too angry and hurt to accept you. I have proved that I can be a nurse. Silly, frightened boy; you thought Sprague had expelled me. Look at my head."

On her hair rested the hospital cap. She had never worn one before.

"My probation ended today. Miss Sprague sent for me to tell me that I had done so well as a probationer that I was entitled to the ranks of the pupil nurses with the honor of wearing the hospital cap. She was lovely; she is not a bit hard or unreasonable. She talked so beautifully to me that I cried and she kissed me and set the cap on my head."

"But you said you were to leave the hospital."

"I am. I leave to marry you. I have demonstrated my ability to endure the hardest period of a nurse's life. I have learned how much you love me. I am ready to leave. I shall now demonstrate my ability to be a good wife."

The Praise That Comes From Thankful Hopkinsville People.

One kidney remedy never fails. Hopkinsville people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Hopkinsville testimony proves it always reliable.

Mrs. Francis Brown, 204 Fourth St., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "There is no doubt about Doan's Kidney Pills living up to the claims made for them and you are at liberty to use my name as one who recommends them highly. I was annoyed for years by backache which came on by spells especially severe when I contracted a cold. About four years ago I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at L. A. Johnson & Co's Pharmacy and I was not disappointed with the results. After taking a dose or two I knew that the remedy was acting directly on my kidneys and in a short time my trouble ceased. During the past four years I have used Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally when having similar attacks and in each case they have given me prompt relief. We think a great deal of Doan's Kidney Pills and always keep them in the house."

HOPKINSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Saturday afternoon High School defeated Owensboro by the score of 11 to 6 in one of the best and cleanest games ever played on a local gridiron. Both teams were rather evenly matched altho Owensboro outweighed the local team by over ten pounds to the man. But High School displayed a terrific speed and fighting spirit which eventually won the game.

The game was won in the first half. The marvelous speed of the High School team completely dazzled their heavier opponents and by the end of the first half they had scored enough points to win the game. High School started off with a rush. They kicked off to Owensboro but soon recovered the ball. Then Fuqua was substituted for Higgins, and he calmly placed a drop kick squarely between the goal posts.

In the next quarter High School simply swept the Owensboro boys off their feet; by line plunges, end runs, and forward passes, they gained at will. A few minutes after the quarter began Fuqua tackled Jake of Owensboro behind his own goal line and threw him for a safety. Then High School secured the ball and on a toward pass to Fuqua, landed the ball on Owensboro's two yard line; from here Abbitt carried the ball over and Green kicked goal.

In the second half Owensboro came back with a rush, and in the third quarter, Meisenheimer carried the ball over for a touch down. Clarke kicked goal. Then in the fourth quarter they rushed the ball to the 3 yard line but High School held firm and Robertson punted out of danger. But Owensboro came again and time was called with the ball in their possession on High School's 5 yard line.

For High School the whole team played the greatest game of their career. Altho outweighed by over ten pounds to the man, they never flinched but hit the line harder and harder every time. Fuqua and Abbitt were whirlwinds of speed, time after time they broke through the line for long gains. The general ship of Capt. Green couldn't have been improved upon; he ran the ball well and played a great defensive game. The whole line played great ball as well as the ends and rest of the team.

For Owensboro, Jake, Clarke and Boyd were three of the fastest men ever seen on the local gridiron. Meisenheimer played a great game and made their lone touchdown.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

High School.	Owensboro.
Robertson Center	Rudd.
Ware L. Guard	C. Dawson.
Walker R. Guard	J. Dawson.
Gary L. Tackle	Jenkins.
McKeynolds R. Tackle	Byrne.

Governor Willson Grows Panicky Because His Chickens Die.

A ROUNDABOUT THEORY

Little Probability That a Chicken That Died Would Be Served on Table.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 18.—Gov. Willson and his family escaped being poisoned today because the assassin overrid his work. The plot was to feed poison to the chickens and let the family of Gov. Willson be poisoned by eating the chickens. The man who put the poison in the chicken food put in two much, and the result was the chickens were killed.

Gov. Willson refused to believe that an attempt had been made on his life or that of the members of his family until the contents of the chickens' crops had been analyzed and then they were found to contain poison. Gov. Willson reported the matter to the police, and besides asked Chief of Police Mangano to furnish a man at the executive mansion.

Policemen are guarding the executive mansion, assigned there at the request of Gov. Willson. Fear that the historic house may be set on fire or that food taken in for the use of the governor's household may be poisoned, are responsible for the guard.

Some time ago Governor Willson discharged an employe who had worked on the place. This employe continued to get his meals from the executive kitchen until the governor found it out, and he was ordered from the place. The next development was the poisoning of the governor's chickens, followed tonight by setting of the guard.

The Lamp That Saves The Eyes

Children naturally never think of possible strain on their eyesight when poring over a fascinating book. It is up to you to see they do not ruin their young eyes these long evenings by reading under a poor light.

The Rayo Lamp is an insurance against eye troubles, alike for young and old.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but it is constructed on the soundest scientific principles, and there is not a better lamp made at any price. It is easy on the eye because its light is so soft and white and widely diffused. And a Rayo Lamp never flickers.

Easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Solid brass throughout, with handsome nickel finish; also in many other styles and finishes.

TOM REED'S STRONG ORATORY

Maine Man Was of the Soil and Knew the Art of Compromise.

It was 20 miles to town over a Kansas prairie and 20 miles home again that the old-timer from Maine had journeyed to hear Tom Reed make a campaign speech.

"O, Sarah, Sarah," he said, as he gathered up the reins, "we've heard a real Maine man today. And wasn't it good? Did you notice how he said, 'We'll,' every time. And he just held the Democratic party up by the tail. I declare for it. I've had such a good time it makes me fairly homesick."

Tom Reed was a Maine man, of the stock and of the soil. He could compress an hour of argument into an epigram with a single sentence he could demolish a laboriously built position; with a phrase he could turn the tables on the most brilliant grandiloquence. When a brilliant fellow-member ended a peroration by saying, "As for me, I would rather be right than be president," and Tom Reed retorted, "Well, don't worry; you'll never be either," the whole speech became dust, and only Reed's epigram remained.

Now it was Reed's Maine heredity and Maine environment that thus armed him to cope with an opponent. For generations there have been men in every Maine town with a local reputation for saying things pithily, pungently and humorously.

There was uncle Daniel Decker, known for his "dry" savings the whole length of the lower Saco valley from Limington down. "Jim Smith's legs is so durned short," said uncle Daniel, "that when he walks down hill the seat of his pants drags on the ground."

IS SHOCK TO BOTH NATIONS

German Waiter Objects to Newsboys Shouting War With France Has Been Declared.

The German waiter in the Waldorf cafe at luncheon time the other day was very much disturbed as he brought the bill of fare.

"Pardon me, sir," he said, "but is it true that war has been declared between Germany and France?"

The man who was about to eat hadn't heard of it, and asked how the waiter had got the information.

"Why, those half a dozen young men who call 'Uxtra, special uxtra!' every other night through the winter in this part of the town were yelling outside about half an hour ago that war had been declared and were selling papers on the strength of it," was the reply. "If they were shouting false news like that there ought to be a way of punishing them, for every German and every Frenchman who heard them must have got a terrible shock."—New York Sun.

Brains and Hair.

A very momentous question has arisen: Does a woman's hair reduce her brain power? Experts are busy disagreeing on the point, which is, of course, the particular function of experts. The principal of a girls' school says that in every case where the younger girls have had their hair cut short their brains have been rendered more capable of sustained effort. A doctor and a schoolmaster, however, scout the idea, perhaps because they have never had upon the tops of their heads a heat generating mass of hair, intersected with metal instruments and shell combs. Every woman knows the hot throbbing, distinct from headache, which goes on under the mass of her hair, wherever it is placed, while schoolgirls have either a heavy plait, involving some strain from the top of the scalp, or a wide spreading mass of hair, which is equally hot. We may yet come to a day when small girls will have short hair, just as they wear knickerbocker suits to play in.

Boy Shot Big Eagle.

Ten-year-old Otto Frame, a farmer's boy living seven miles from Michigan City, killed a big baldhead eagle and saved his baby brother from serious injury if not from death last week.

The children were playing alone in the yard, the older members of the family having gone to town when they saw the big bird circling above them. The boy ran into the house and took down his father's shotgun. As he ran back to the yard the eagle swooped down upon the baby. Otto raised the gun and fired both barrels.

The big bird fell dead shot through the breast within a few feet of the little boy. Soon after Otto's father, Chauncey B. Frame, returned. They stretched out the dead eagle. It measured eight feet from wing tip to wing tip.—Chicago Tribune.

Metaphor Resented.

"Did I understand you to say, sir," said Col. Stilwell, "that you regarded that orator's remarks as moonshine?"

"That's what I said," replied the critical person.
"Well, sir, I do not wish to seem captious, but when it comes to comparing that line of talk with a mountain product for whose vigorous qualities I have a large degree of respect, I must say that your efforts to be complimentary, sir, go entirely too far."—Washington Star.

Motive.

"Why do you insist on asking that young man to sing?"
"Because," replied Miss Cayenne, "when he's singing he isn't trying to converse."

Mrs. Vest Felt Like Crying.

Wallace, Va.—Mrs. Mary Vest, of this place, says, "I hadn't been very well for three years, and at last I was taken bad. I could not stand on my feet, I had such pains I ached all over. I felt like crying all the time. Mother insisted on my trying Cardui. Now I feel well, and do nearly all my housework." No medicine for weak and ailing women, has been so successful as Cardui. It goes to the spot, relieving pain and distress, and building up womanly strength, in a way that will surely please you. Only try it once.

FORTUNE IN HIS LUCKY COIN

Pocket Piece, Carried by Man for 55 Years, Proves to Be Worth $3,000.

The grimly humorous goddess of fortunes good and ill never wrought for the heroes of a Scheherazade or a Hans Anderson a stranger trick than that by which she recently thrust a fortune into the pocket of an unsuspecting grocer's clerk of Los Angeles.

He is Charles L. Cross, a clerk for Frank A. Valle, a grocer of South Main street. For nearly fifty-five years he has carried as a lucky pocket piece a silver half dollar of the same date as the year of his birth, 1853.

And it has justified his faith in its luckiness at last, for from being merely a battered and worn four bit piece of ancient vintage and doubtful beauty it has suddenly leaped to relatively enormous value as the second known coin of that date in existence. Twenty-five hundred dollars was refused with scorn by the owner of the only other 1853 half dollar known to exist—rated as the most valuable coin now in the exhibit of the American Numismatic association in Chicago. There are few individual coins of greater value by record of their rarity than the 1853 half dollar, even the historic dollar of 1804 taking a back seat when it comes to relative scarcity.

More than half a century ago in his native town of Niles, Mich., the coin was given to Cross as a birthday present because it was struck off in the same year of his birth. It went into the pocket of young Charles' first pair of pants and in his trousers pocket it has remained ever since.

Cross is now fifty-eight years old and his life has not always been an easy one. He has seen the time when his lucky piece was silent in his pocket because there was not even a penny there to jingle with it. There have been times when he has taken the four bits from its resting place and was about to sacrifice it for its equivalent in bread and beans because, except for it, he was absolutely dead broke, hungry and without where to lay his head.

There has always been in the back of his head the whimsical idea that it would some time bring him luck. And it has brought him luck.

GREAT BUBBLE OF LAVA

Is Discovered Floating Within the Crater of a Volcano in Honolulu.

Mail advices from Honolulu tell of the most amazing phenomenon ever observed within the crater of a volcano by a white man.

It was no less than a tremendous bubble of lava, inflated by gas from the very center of the earth, which supported an island as it floated across a lake of fiery liquid. Frank A. Perret, the scientist who observed it, estimated that it covered an area of 3,000 square feet, and he was fortunate enough to secure a few photographs, although conditions were far from favorable for picture taking.

"The bubble was a huge sausage-shaped affair, inflated with volcanic gas and composed of lava glass," says the scientist in his report. "A lava fountain, boiling continuously under the eastern end, gave the appearance of a screw propeller, and the amazing contrivance seemed to be navigating the lake like a great whaleback steamer."

"There was an island of black crust which, when it began to sink, evolved a great quantity of gas, which blew the bubble of lava glass; and this in turn sustained the island and prevented it from sinking. It made several tours of the lava before it disappeared from sight at last."

This was observed in the volcano Halemaumau, and Perret and two Japanese assistants were the only ones who saw it.

Egg Substitutes in Great Britain.

An American firm making an egg substitute desires information as to the opening for its sale in Great Britain. This article is already sold more extensively in this country than in the United States. It is of British manufacture and is sold by almost every grocery. One brand of egg powder sells at eight to sixteen cents per tin according to size, and another at eight to fourteen cents, or eleven cents per dozen small packets. There is also a product called Eggo which is stated to consist of new laid eggs in the form of powder which is retailed at twenty-three cents per carton. The substitutes referred to are not sold through agents, but directly by the makers to the various retail stores and grocers; they are well known and widely used. There is no duty on the importation of egg substitutes into Great Britain provided sugar does not form a component part; when it does duty is assessed according to the proportion and polarization ascertained by test.

Where the Trouble Lay.

"James," said his mother, "you eat and eat, and never seem satisfied. Here is one more helping of pudding, but it must be the last."

James started on the pudding with delight.

"Once upon a time, James," went on his mother, "there was a little boy who ate and ate until one day he ate too much pudding, and he burst."

"There ain't such a thing as too much pudding!" grunted Jimmy, as he finished his helping.

"There must be," said the mother, "or why did the little boy burst?"

"Not enough boy!" replied James, and handed up his plate for a fifth helping.

BARS OUT RUSSIAN GEESSE

Germany's Blow to a Great Trade Seriously Felt on Both Sides of Border.

Announcement has been made that the German authorities have suspended the importation of live geese from Russia on the ground that there is a considerable amount of disease prevalent in the frontier districts of that country.

Coming, as this prohibition does, immediately prior to the period when imports of live geese increase rapidly the question is serious alike to breeders in Russia, who will have large quantities of birds thrown on their hands; to German goose fatteners, as they will be unable to fill up their pens, for the home production is totally insufficient to meet their requirements, and to housewives in Germany, who will find the already high price of what is an important article of food advance still further and probably be prohibitive. Russians state that there is no justification for this regulation, that it is a trade move in the interests of German dealers to force down prices and as a measure of fiscal protection to German breeders.

Germany imports annually about 8,000,000 live geese, of which seven-eighths come from Russia, where these birds are bred in vast numbers throughout the western and southwestern governments. They are bought from the raisers by traveling dealers, who drive them in huge flocks to the frontier stations, where they are entrained for despatch to Berlin and other cities.

The cars used for this purpose are built in four decks, each car holding about 1,200 birds. Special trains are run in the season, consisting of a dozen to thirty-five cars, in accordance with the supply. As many as 50,000 geese have been known to arrive at Magleviehof market, Berlin, on a single day.—Westminster Gazette.

PREPARED FOR THE WORST

Musio Hall Manager Sells Smelling Salts to Patrons of His
"Awful Spectacle."

When it comes to advertising dramatic thrills, consider the manager of a music hall and moving picture show. Horrors are that manager's specialty. Posters and a piratical barker do their share toward creating goose flesh, but they are not nearly so effective as the youth who offers bottles of smelling salts for rent. Right out in the middle of the sidewalk he stands, thrusting his volatile wares—stoppered, fortunately—beneath your nose.

"Go in' inside?" says he. "Take this—you'll need it; faint without it. Only five cents. Brace you up for the awful spectacle."

You stop; you wonder. What can the awful spectacle be like? The chances are that you had no notion of going to that show or any other show just then, but the prospect of seeing something so blood-curdling that you can't live through it without smelling salts appeals to your imagination. You drop all business and go in.

Woman and Her Check.

She was brisk and full of business as she bustled into the bank, stepped to a desk, indorsed a check and then handed it in at the paying teller's window.

"You see, I've indorsed it and come to the right window the very first time," she said with a beaming smile. "We women are getting to know a little about banking."

"That's very true, indeed, madam," said the teller, "but this check is not signed by any one."

"Well, I just got it from my husband. He's in Chicago. Here's his letter, telling that he is enclosing it."

"That's all good enough, madam, but the check itself must be signed."

"Here's his name on the letter. Can't you cut it off and paste it on the check?"

It took the teller some time to explain and he still wonders if she doesn't think he just didn't want her to have the money.

Just Letting Off Steam.

An Englishman living in New Guinea writes to a London paper: "A neighbor of mine, just as everyone was going to bed, began to make night hideous with his shrieks and groans. . . . shouting like some midnight roysterer in the chorus of a comic song, and then a blood-curdling wail, as of a dog that bays at the moon. There was nothing particular about the matter with the man. In New Guinea we are denied the means of excitement, or the consolations, or the narcotics, or the dissipations, of cultured and civilized men and women, so we must just let ourselves go, and howl and sing and shout, and then howl again. And nobody takes much notice and nobody minds."

Sculptor Receives Decoration.

Albert Jaegers, the sculptor of the Baron von Steuben statue, which was recently presented by the United States to Germany, has been decorated with the Order of the Eagle, fourth class, in recognition of his merit. He was born in Elberfeld, Germany, in 1868, obtaining his education in the public schools. Without wealth or influential friends he worked away in the face of many discouraging features, until, self-taught in art, he arrived at the point where his creations commanded recognition. He came to this country several years ago to make his home, and he has an attractive place at Suffern, New York.

CIGAR SMOKING IN GERMANY

Business Is Increasing as Kaiser's Subjects Realize Pipe Is Un-handy to Carry.

Mr. A. von Reiger, president of the town council of Dresden, Germany, who is at the Ebbitt, is also a manufacturer of cigars.

"The cigar business in Germany is on the increase," said he. "In my factory if I do not turn out 250,000 a day I consider business very poor.
Germans, long famed for their variety and quality of pipes, are taking to cigars. In former days a German was always pictured with a stein of beer and a big curved-stemmed pipe. Now the cigar has taken the latter's place.

"The main reason for the change is the fact that pipes are unhandy to carry around. They take up a lot of space in one's pocket, and a packet of tobacco takes up some more. Germans are outdoor people, and the cigarette is too mild for them. A man who is in the open all the time likes a strong smoke, and the more he is out of doors the stronger he wants it. Cigars can be carried easily, and they give even more satisfaction than the pipe. Hence the change.

"My," he continued, "but your American prices are high! No wonder a man is not considered rich unless he is the possessor of $1,000,000. Why, in Germany if a man has 1,000,000 marks, which is something more than $200,000 in American money, he is considered phenomenally rich. It is a shame we can't ship foodstuffs across the ocean to you without paying duty."—Washington Post.

RAINBOW IS A BACK NUMBER

It Is Put Out of the Running by the Varied Coloring in Men's Socks.

"The rainbow isn't in it now with the socks worn by men," said, between stations, an elevated railroad guard to his neighbor on the platform, and he continued:

"Just glance in there, will you, and let your eye range along at the men's feet. 'Purple, green, yellow, blue, red, gray, pink and black socks, and socks of one color with spots of another and socks with stripes in 'em and cross-bars and socks of various colors mixed, and I'll bet with all those colors that knock heck out of the rainbow you see that one pair there with no color in 'em plainest of all? Sure, it's that pair of white socks, the only pair in the car; and you might travel here day after day and not see another pair.

"They tell me, and I can just remember a little of it myself, that there was a time when men didn't wear anything but white socks. White socks, and maybe some gray, and then they came to black, but who'd have thought they'd ever come to this? I tell you—" and he broke off to yell:
"Empty-ump stree—t! Empty-ump stree—t!"

"The rainbow's a back number now," he added.

Passing of the Spare Room.

Fifty years ago nearly every house in New York City had one or more guest chambers. Today half her inhabitants rise at an unusual hour to permit their beds to be turned into parlor furniture or piano fortes. If Cousin Mary or Cousin John realized all this as, of course, no one who has not lived in a great city can really realize it, they would understand better just why they had not been invited to visit Tom's folks. It is not because Tom and his wife wish to slight Mary and her husband that they have not invited them to visit them in the city, but because positively the city cousins have not enough more room in their tiny apartment for even so much as a canary bird.
On the other hand, John and his wife
probably have a great twelve-room house in the country, a house whose latch-string is known to be always hanging out.—Woman's Home Companion.

Woman's Relative Value.

Once at the table of Sir James Knowles, editor of the Nineteenth century, the talk ran on the relative physical and mental value of women.
Turning to Sir Ray Lankester, the aged prime minister (Mr. Gladstone) said: "I am of the opinion that the relative value of a man and a woman is in all classes of society about the same as it was in my grandfather's time in Jamaica. When they wanted to buy a negro they gave one hundred and twenty pounds for a man and eighty pounds for a woman, and," he added, "that is a fair measure of their relative values the world over."

A Blind Baroness.

A short time ago the Baroness von Krausfeld (Miriam Gardner) an English woman, died in Bucharest.
The baroness, who was one of the queen of Roumania's personal friends, was writing a poem one day when a mist suddenly spread over her eyes, and she thus became, in her fiftieth year, totally blind. In spite of her age, however, the baroness attended an English school to learn the alphabet and the use of the typewriter, and in the end triumphed over her affliction to the extent of being able to make her own clothes and hats without any aid whatever.

No Cause for Diffidence.

Adam—I'm not certain, but there is no reason why a man should be afraid

TO BE TRIED NEXT WEEK

Suit of Mrs. Latham vs. Amoss
And Others in Federal Court.

ECHO OF THE RIOT OF 1907.

Similar Suit Against Hopkinsville Will Not be Tried
This Term.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 20.—The United States court will convene in Owensboro on Monday, November 27, and will perhaps have one of the largest dockets on record.

This will be the first session to be held in the new government building, at the corner of Fifth and Frederica streets, and the courtroom, which is one of the handsomest in the state, has all conveniences and accommodations which could possibly be desired.

There is enough work at this extra term to keep the court in session for at least one week.

One of the most important cases to be tried is that of Mrs. Elsie G. Latham against Dr. D. A. Amoss and 108 others for $50,000 damages for the burning of a tobacco factory belonging to the late John C. Latham. The burning of the factory was the result of the night rider raid made on the city of Hopkinsville during the troubles in 1907. Of the defendants and witnesses there are about 200 persons interested in the outcome of this case. Preparations have been made for a trial at this term, and it is understood the case will go to a trial.

Mrs. Latham also has an independent suit for $50,000 damages against the city of Hopkinsville, growing out of the same trouble, in which it is charged that the officials of Hopkinsville failed to use proper care in the enforcement of the law, and to prevent the attack made by the night riders. This case will probably be continued, if the other suit is tried.

Mrs. Latham is represented by Senator W. O. Bradley and John Stiles, while the Christian county defendants are represented by Judge W. T. Fowler of Hopkinsville, while R. A. Miller, of this city, represents the city of Hopkinsville.

At the last term of court the case against the city of Hopkinsville was dismissed, the court ruling that both suits could not be tried jointly, and a new suit was then filed separately against the city.

A third night rider case on the docket is the case of C. C. Shemwell against Jan Chapman and others, in which the plaintiff is seeking damages in the sum of $20,000 for injuries alleged to have been inflicted by night riders at his home in Todd county, during the night rider troubles in that county.
